PROSPECTUS & PROGRAMME GUIDE

WHY THIS PROGRAMME

1. Lead beyond your function

Experienced professionals do not need another generic management course. They need a way to widen their business leadership without stepping out of work: broader business understanding, a route to bigger roles, learning they can use immediately, and a credible return on a large spend of time and money.

This proposal is built around four commitments that follow from what prospective learners actually ask for:

- Career continuity. Keep working full-time. Scheduled live sessions and a digital layer fit around a job rather than replacing it, and classroom concepts connect immediately to your current role.
- Applied learning. A workplace capstone on a real management challenge from your own organisation, not a hypothetical dissertation.

- Designed peer learning. A cohort of experienced professionals across functions and industries, because who you learn with is part of what you are paying for.
- Open terms. Time commitment, structure, assessment and total fee stated plainly, and career progression treated as a goal the programme supports, never an outcome it guarantees.

> WHO IT IS FOR
> Professionals roughly 5-10 years into their careers who want to move from functional expertise toward general management responsibility. This is a targeting description from the design proposal; formal admission eligibility, prerequisites and degree recognition would be established institutionally before any real intake.

STRUCTURE

2. Programme architecture

ELEMENT	PROPOSED DESIGN
Programme	TAPMI Executive MBA: From Functional Expert to Business Leader
Format	Part-time blended; exact calendar to be set after institutional feasibility review
Live component	Scheduled live sessions with guided discussion
Digital layer	Learning materials, digital learning support and simulations
Learning methods	Cases, simulations, guided discussion, peer learning, workplace application
Applied component	Individual or team capstone on a real business problem, with confidentiality safeguards
Assessment	Module assignments, case analysis, peer-learning contribution and capstone presentation
Support	Academic coordination, faculty feedback and clear access to materials throughout

On duration: the proposal deliberately does not fix a duration. It should follow from curriculum breadth, workload, faculty availability and contact hours, and be comparable with alternatives, rather than being an arbitrary round number chosen for marketing. An indicative delivery rhythm of weekend live sessions plus a digital layer is what the blended format is designed around.

CURRICULUM

3. The learning journey

1 Orientation & goals

Personal leadership self-assessment, cohort onboarding and individual development planning. You set the baseline your progress is measured against.

2 Business foundations

Strategy and execution, financial accounting and finance for decision-making, marketing and customer value, operations and process improvement, and business analytics.

3 Leading through people

Communication, delegation, feedback and team leadership: the move from personal delivery to delivery through others.

4 Cross-functional decision-making

Cases and simulations on trade-offs across functions, so enterprise problems stop looking like turf wars.

5 Workplace application

Identify and scope a live business challenge in your current operational domain, with faculty guidance on framing.

6 Capstone review

Defend your problem, analysis, proposed intervention, implementation plan and measures of success before an academic and practitioner panel.

The workplace capstone in detail

The capstone is the spine of the programme. You identify a real business challenge inside your organisation or industry domain, agree confidentiality protections with your employer where needed, and work it with faculty guidance through diagnosis, options and a defended recommendation. The output is a rigorous intervention plan you can actually implement, which is also the most concrete evidence of readiness for broader responsibility you can put in front of your own leadership.

INVESTMENT

4. Fees (planning figures)

COMPONENT	PROPOSED TERMS
Standard programme fee	Rs 6,50,000 plus applicable GST, payable in term-based instalments across the learning journey
Founding-cohort fee	Rs 5,75,000 before applicable taxes, applicable exclusively to the proposed inaugural intake, recognising that a first cohort enrols before an alumni record exists
Instalments	Structured by term; precise instalment amounts would be published at approval
Not included	Travel and accommodation for any campus contact days, and personal study materials beyond provided resources

The fee level is set against published fees for degree-granting executive MBAs in India, which span roughly Rs 4 lakh to Rs 16 lakh across formats. The proposed positioning sits in the middle of that range, justified by the applied capstone and published workload rather than by brand alone. These are academic planning figures, not approved fees; final terms would require institutional feasibility review.

> NO PROMISES A BROCHURE CANNOT KEEP
>
> No automatic promotion, salary increment or placement guarantee comes with this programme. Professional education builds capability and confidence; career progression depends on your performance, your organisation and the market.

COMPARE WELL

5. How to compare any executive programme

Whichever programme you choose, ask every provider the same questions:

- What is the total cost, including GST, materials, travel and examination or re-registration fees?
- What is the weekly time commitment in hours, and what happens in a live session versus self-study?
- Who is in the cohort: experience range, functions, industries?
- Is there an applied project? On a real problem from your work, or a simulated one?
- What credential does completion confer, and under whose authority?
- Can you speak to a current participant or alumnus?
